A Tree-mendous Christmas

Festival of Trees Shines Bright at City Hall

Rockin' around one Christmas Tree isn't enough for us here in Ringgold! Instead, we're frolicking through an entire Festival of Trees this month. Starting the night of Ringgold's Down-Home Christmas on December 6th, you can explore a winter wonderland tucked away behind City Hall. Over 20 trees will be on display for our community to enjoy, and just like a winter snowflake, no two are alike! Each tree is uniquely decorated by a local business, club, or school organization and will have a QR code so the public can vote on their favorite. The festival's winner will receive a prize, so be sure to vote. Viewers can enjoy the festival through January 6th, but voting closes on December 31st. There's nothin' like Christmas in Ringgold!

The Best Is Yet to Come!

North Ga Best of the Best Nominations Begin

This year may be coming to a close, but the Chattanooga Times Free Press "Best of the Best" competition has just begun! Nominations open on December 11th and close on December 30th. The five businesses that receive the most nominations within their category will make it onto the final ballot, which will be voted on from January 13th to February 3rd. You can nominate your favorite local businesses, events, people, non-profits, and more at bestofnga.com. Love attending the Haunted Depot or the 1890 Days Jamboree? If so, be sure to give these Ringgold events a shoutout during nominations.

Playhouse Debuts Christmas Cabaret

The Ringgold Playhouse 2024 season has been a season of firsts for the theater company. In July, TRP produced and performed their first musical, I Love You, You're Perfect. Now Change. Now, they're gearing up to tackle their first Christmas production. Written by Playhouse Director Adam Cook, Home for the Holidays is an original cabaret that features a collection of intertwined stories about the holiday spirit, family craziness, and learning to believe in miracles. Attendees can expect to see singing and dancing to classic and original Christmas songs. Home for the Holidays will run for three performances from Thursday, Dec. 19th through Saturday, Dec. 21st, 2024, at the historic Ringgold Depot. Each show starts at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the link at the bottom of this page.
